Louis Myers

Partner at Lando & Anastasi, LLP, Cambridge

Louis
Myers

Years with firm: Three-plus

Education: Harvard Law School

Career highlight: Co-founding the life sciences practice at Lando & Anastasi. It is unbelievably exciting to be in Cambridge, at the center of so much innovation.

The most important issue facing the legal profession: In the life sciences, one of the most important challenges is building IP positions that can withstand increasingly sophisticated attack from generic manufacturers.

Best advice you were ever given: "Listen to the client - then, listen to the client again." There are a lot of us who know what the tools are that are available to bring to any particular problem, but really listening is the first step.

Advice you would give someone entering the profession today: Consistent with the budget you are given for a project, every piece of work you do should be viewed as a building block in your growing reputation.
